NIGHT OF THE KETCHUP KILLER

By HENRY WEBER

Chain saw slayer covers his victims with ten gallons of tomato sauce

A chain saw killer brutally decapitated five teenagers — then drenched their bodies with ketchup to cover his tracks!

"It's bizarre," Det. Stuart Volke told reporters in Griesheim, West Germany. "The killer murdered those poor kids in the most horrifying manner imaginable but couldn't leave it at that.

"He must have used 10 or 12 gallons of ketchup to cover their bodies.

"When we first arrived we thought the whole thing was a joke."

In fact, five young men ages 17 to 18 perished in the midnight massacre in an abandoned house west of Griesheim, said the cop. Clues are scarce.

All police have to go on are a single ketchup footprint found in the living room and the ketchup-drenched bodies themselves.

"Whoever committed the murders must have had access to restaurant-size cans or bottles of ketchup," said Det. Volke.

"We're checking with food suppliers and wholesalers about suspicious employees," he said.

"But when all is said and done I think we're going to find that the killer is a chef. There's something about the way the bodies were chopped up that tells me the killer had experience with meat."

Det. Volke refused to elaborate on the crime scene. He also declined to speculate on what the teens were doing in the old house.

Newspaper reports noted that the place was a popular party spot, however, and said teens often stayed the night to drink.

"To the best of our knowledge the kids didn't have any enemies, at least not any who had the gumption to kill them," said Det. Volke. "The whole town is scared to death," he added. "I don't know anyone who doesn't retch at the thought of ketchup.

"The sight of it makes them think of those five kids."

Teacher must wear sign of shame

By JACK ALEXANDER

A pregnant teacher dodged a 30-day jail term by agreeing to wear a sign around her neck for 60 days — saying she sexually assaulted two little girls.

The bizarre sentence was imposed by Seattle Judge Warren Chan after Julie Lynn Guptill-Gilbert pleaded guilty to two counts of communicating with a minor for immoral purposes.

A former worker at the Montessori school in Seattle, Mrs. Guptill-Gilbert had a choice of going to jail for 30 days or wearing the sign when she goes out.

She must wear the cardboard placard, which states she sexually assaulted children, for the duration of her pregnancy.

Chan said he would consider removing the sign if Mrs. Guptill-Gilbert undergoes psychiatric treatment.

Mrs. Guptill-Gilbert was working as a teacher at a Montessori preschool class at the time of the assault on the two girls, aged 4 and 8, a year ago.

"The woman is married, five months pregnant and plans to move to California in the near future," said Donahue. "If they move within 60 days, the sign goes with her."

Sweethearts reunited after 31 yrs. of separation & govt. hassles

Love triumphs at long last!

By PETE COOKE

A young couple's brief encounter sparked a smoldering affair that refused to die and finally brought them back together — 31 years later!

The amazing love story began in 1957, when Olga Wagner took a trip to Russia and met a handsome soldier named Vladimir Karpov on a street in Moscow.

"I remember exactly how it happened," said Olga, who was 29 at the time and touring the Soviet Union with other top students from her native Czechoslovakia.

"It was outrageous. I met him on the street. He was so handsome, so tanned and gorgeous looking.

"I brought him back to my hotel and all the girls fainted," said Olga, who moved to Canada in 1968 and now lives in St. Catherines, near Toronto.

During the three weeks that Olga and her fellow students traveled in Russia, she and Vladimir were together constantly.

When the whirlwind tour was over sweethearts Olga and Vladimir vowed to continue their romance through the mail.

But all of their letters came back unopened, returned by their governments.

In time they both went on with their lives, but neither forgot.

Olga married another man and they had two children.

After moving to Canada, she launched a career teaching Slavic languages to diplomats.

Vladimir, who worked for Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, got married and had two children.

His second marriage was on the rocks in 1985 when he went to Olga's hometown to find her.

In Brno, Czechoslovakia, Vladimir discovered that Olga had left the country. Olga's family wrote to her in Canada to let her know Vladimir was looking for her.

Thirty-one years after the sweethearts met, Olga and Vladimir finally exchanged letters and the romance was rekindled.

After her divorce, Olga moved from Ottawa to St. Catherines, where Vladimir joined her.

Two weeks after Vladimir arrived in Canada from Russia, he and Olga were married — at long last!

Couple's amazing story began in 1957 — behind the Iron Curtain!

Gizmo checks eye vapors to see if you're drunk

By DEREK CLONTZ

An astonishing new device makes it possible to tell how much a person has had to drink by analyzing vapors from his eye!

Canadian chemist Dr. H.G. Gillet calls his invention the Breathyzer.

Its eye pulse can use the gadget in situations where Breathalyzers wouldn't work, such as when the person to be tested is seriously injured or unconscious.

In tests performed at the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto, the highly sensitive Breathyzer has been proved to be even more accurate than either the Breathalyzer or blood tests, said Dr. Gillet.

The funnel-shaped gizmo works by gathering vapors from the fluid and passing them to a gas sensor that measures their alcohol content, he explained.

Incredible abdominal growth is the 2nd largest ever recorded

By SUSAN JIMISON

Barbara Louise Jones weighed 250 pounds when she went into surgery, but more than half her weight was not really her — it was an incredible 126-pound tumor, which doctors removed from her abdomen!

Doctors remove 126-pound tumor from 124-pound woman!

The enormous growth was the second largest tumor ever recorded and left the 54-year-old retiree's doctors stunned. It was malignant, but miraculously had not yet spread and the prognosis for Miss Jones is excellent.

"My mother had died of ovarian cancer, so I was frightened," the Fort Worth, Tex., woman told The NEWS. "I decided I wasn't going to take painful treatments like she did. I knew I'd have to go to a doctor eventually, but I felt it was useless. Finally it got so bad I had to see someone."

Miss Jones said she discovered her rapidly growing ovarian cyst about two years ago after she became aware that her unusual weight gain was related to a swelling in her abdomen. But her fear prevented her from doing anything about it — in spite of the pleadings of friends and relatives.

By December 1987, when she finally went to see a surgeon, the 5-foot 1-inch former school employee was crippled by the malignant tumor. She couldn't sit up for long, and could no longer drive her car. She retired early from her job because her tumor made working difficult.

"It was grotesque," her surgeon, Dr. J.K. Way, recalled. "She obviously wasn't fat, but she weighed 250 pounds. Her abdomen bulged three feet out in front of her.

"She had trouble walking and couldn't get up without assistance. It looked as if she'd been losing weight from the rest of her body while the tumor grew."

After administering a series of tests and scans, Dr. Way scheduled immediate surgery for his patient, who by this time was almost as big around as she was tall.

During the operation at Fort Worth's All Saints Episcopal Hospital, Dr. Way cut a 4½-foot incision into Miss Jones' horribly swollen abdomen and carefully removed the cancerous growth.

The incredible tumor was the largest Dr. Way had ever seen, but didn't top the Guinness Book of World Records current entry, a 328-pound ovarian cyst removed from a woman in 1905.

Without the surgery, Miss Jones' tumor might have spread to other parts of her body or caused difficulty in breathing.

It might have ruptured or could have interfered with digestion, Dr. Way said.

As it was, the woman recovered completely from her operation and now is feeling fine.

It's a miracle! Her huge cyst was malignant but gutsy gal's doing fine!

Tour bus driver takes casino owners for a ride, say cops

Cops say a crafty tour bus driver tricked 36 bums into thinking they were getting a free two-week vacation as he drove them to Nevada casinos that paid him to bring in gamblers!

By PETE COOKS

"It was a pretty slick trick," said Sgt. Steve Ducharme of the Las Vegas Police Department's fraud division.

According to Sgt. Ducharme, 44-year-old Gilbert Gonzado drove a bus for a San Jose, Calif., tour company that took busloads of gamblers to Nevada casinos.

"Some casinos pay tour [illegible] when they deliver a busload of gamblers," Ducharme said. "It's perfectly legal for them to do that, but Gonzado, who knew the system and knew the routes, decided to take advantage of it."

Sergeant Ducharme said that on his own Gonzado chartered a bus from the tour company and headed for San Francisco's seedy Mission District, where he convinced 36 bums that he was taking them on a free two-week vacation.

"None of these street people speaks a word of English," said Ducharme. "But Gonzado got them on the bus and away they went."

Authorities said Gonzado first drove his busload of half-[illegible] and Lake Tahoe, then swung south to Las Vegas.

"The way it worked was Gonzado would call a casino and tell them he had a busload of gamblers he would bring over if the casino was willing to pay him," Ducharme said. "If they said yes, he'd drive the bus to the casino, collect his money, then let his street people wander around the ca-

Accident victim falls out of ambulance

Carmine Ureiuolo knew it wasn't his day when he was injured in a traffic smashup — then fell out of the ambulance that was rushing him to a hospital.

The 25-year-old man crashed to the pavement when the rear doors of the ambulance flew open as it sped through Avellino, Italy.

Attendants didn't even realize their patient was no longer with them until they arrived at the emergency room and hopped out to get him.

Meanwhile, Carmine picked himself off the pavement and hitchhiked to the hospital, where he was treated for minor injuries.

82-YEAR-OLD TWIN SISTERS DIE IN SAME WAY . . . AT SAME INSTANT

Twin sisters Edith Heys and Lizzie King lived identical lives — and when they died, they died identical deaths!

The women's hearts stopped at the same moment and both were found lying behind their kitchen doors in identical homes they occupied on the same street.

Carbon-copy gals greet Grim Reaper together!

"They were so in tune throughout their lives that it seems their hearts both stopped at the same time," said a police spokesman from the town of Barnoldswick, England, where the 82-year-old women resided. "It's more than a coincidence.

"In 30 years of police work, I've never come across anything like it."

The old ladies were inseparable, neighbors say. In their younger days they both worked at textile weavers in the same mill. They married on the same day. Neither had children and both became widows.

For the last 40 years they lived one house away from each other in identical homes painted alike — maroon and cream-colored. When they retired — at the same time, of course — the two old ladies spent their last years together sharing identical hobbies and activities.

A few weeks ago a neighbor realized it had been several days since she last saw the elderly sisters. She called police and officers stopped by the house of Edith Heys.

When she didn't answer her door they broke in to find her dead of heart failure. They went down the street to notify Lizzie King of her sister's death — and found Lizzie lying in her kitchen, also dead of heart failure.

The coroner estimated the twins' deaths had occurred at 9:45 a.m. on the same day.

After they shared a lifetime together, the silver-haired sisters shared death, too. And relatives have decided in respect that [illegible] even in the cemetery, ordering that the twins be buried together.

"They were alike as two peas in a pod," said a neighbor of the devoted twins.

Sneaker kills hippo

A zoo's prize hippopotamus choked to death on a tennis shoe that some idiot tossed in its cage! The mighty beast's death was agonizing, said Luis Lopez, director of the city zoo in Buenos Aires, Argentina. According to the official, the big hippo repeatedly banged its head up the ground before it perished.

Cagey chef cooks exotic critters for his fat cat customers

Restaurant serves zoo animals!

By JOE BERGER

Conniving chef Shiu Fo-Ti set up his own zoo so he could buy rare, cuddly critters from around the world — then slaughtered them and fed them to fat cat customers in his ritzy restaurant.

Day after day, shifty Shiu served up piping-hot platters of koala bear, Bengal tiger, hummard, owl, orangutan, python, penguin, giant salamander and other exotic delicacies snatched from the cages of his bustling zoo in Wuchow, China.

"The zoo was just a scam, a way for him to get a steady supply of out-of-the-ordinary animals to cook up for his wealthy patrons," police investigator Yen Ting told reporters.

"As a zookeeper, he could legally import animals no one else could get. Often, other zoos would simply give him animals out of goodwill — never suspecting that they were winding up on the dinner table."

The zoo the shady chef operated behind his resort lodge was so well-stocked that thousands of visitors a week came to check out his caged critters.

But most of the unfortunate animals lasted only a few days there before being whisked away to the wok or the stewpot.

"When people had dinner at the resort, they didn't know they were eating the same cute little koala bears and monkeys they'd been talking to on the zoo that afternoon," Detective Yen said.

"Some of them probably wouldn't have been so hungry if they'd known that," he added.

Shiu's bizarre scheme came to light after a group of school kids wrote letters to a local newspaper complaining about the disappearance of the macaque monkeys they'd donated to the zoo.

A newspaper reporter investigated the kids' complaint and learned the luckless monkeys and thousands of other former zoo inhabitants had been turned into scrumptious hors d'oeuvres and entrees.

The shameless chef was convicted of violating health and wildlife laws and sentenced to seven years in jail.

"A lot of people were very angry when they learned what this man had done," Detective Yen said.

Deaf-mute used sign language to rob another deaf-mute, say cops

Deaf-mute John Hagans is arrested of threatening and robbing an older deaf-mute — by using sign language.

Jimmy Rogers, 46, told cops in Ocala, Fla., two men using sign language asked him to come to the front door of his house.

When Rogers, who is a deaf-mute, opened the door, one of the men used sign language "to threaten to beat up the victim if he didn't give him money," according to police.

Rogers, who is paralyzed on the left side from a stroke, "was in fear of his life" and gave the men $50, said authorities.

Hagans, 25, was charged by police with strong-armed robbery and jailed on $5,000 bail.

The other man hasn't been found.

Accused wife killer fights to keep kids

By PETE COOKE

A Wall Street analyst accused of strangling his wife is now fighting to keep custody of his two children, arguing that the murder charges against him don't make him a bad father.

Charges don't make me a bad dad, he argues

"The children are only in danger of a loving, caring relationship," said Joseph Pikul, whom authorities say strangled his 44-year-old wife, Diane, and dumped her body in a ditch near Newburgh, N.Y.

Pikul, 52, is charged with second-degree murder and free on $350,000 bail while awaiting trial, but he says his biggest concern at the moment is keeping what's left of his family together.

"They want to stay with me," Pikul said of his two kids, Claudia, 9, and Blake, 6.

"They're hanging on to him because that's all they can hang on to right now," said Diane's father, Donald Whitmore, who is trying to have his grandchildren taken away from Pikul and placed in the custody of another relative.

There was a time not long ago when the Pikuls appeared to be a family with everything going for them. As a Wall Street analyst Pikul earned six figures working for the prestigious firm of Arnhold & S. Bleichroeder Inc.

Diane was an assistant to the publisher of Harper's magazine and a writer of short stories.

The couple and their children lived in a fashionable Greenwich Village apartment and also had a summer home in Amagansett, Long Island.

But last fall the family's perfect image began to crumble.

Diane confided to friends that she planned to file for divorce.

Pikul moved out of their home and into a hotel.

After the stock market crash last October cops say Pikul argued with his wife, then beat her up, stuffed her to death and threw her body in the back of the family station wagon.

According to investigators, Pikul drove 100 miles north of New York City and tossed his wife's body in a ditch near Newburgh. He then drove to a car wash where workers remember Pikul as the man who gave them a $60 tip.

Several of his wife's possessions, including jewelry, clothing and credit cards, were found in a dumpster near the car wash. The investigators said, Pikul, who has pleaded not guilty to the second-degree murder charge, said the fact that he's a recovering alcoholic and was abused himself as a child doesn't mean that his children are in any danger of all of being harmed by him.

"I couldn't disagree more," Pikul said. "For me, since I was abused as a child, it is imperative to be a loving, caring parent.

"For me, that's a therapeutic process.

"I couldn't harm a hair, emotionally physically, and even psychologically, on these children."

SUSPECT in wife's murder Joseph Pikul with his two children, Blake and Claudia. He wants to retain custody.

VICTIM Diane Pikul's body was discovered in a ditch.

DON'T JUMP, FAT LADY ... PLEASE!

By LAUREL BOWIE

Tipsy tub of lard Margo Amado did a belly flop from a hotel high-dive board and hit the water so hard she knocked skinny swimmer Pedro Porras out like a light.

Now puny Pedro has filed a whopping $1 million lawsuit against meaty Margo — claiming her 310-pound physique is a lethal weapon!

"That woman is a menace and she shouldn't be allowed to run around endangering other people's lives," the indignant little salesman told reporters in Barcelona, Spain.

"This is not the first time she's left me black and blue. But this time she would have killed me if some kind people hadn't pulled me out of the pool.

"They ought to make her get a license to go out in public with a body like that. It's as deadly as any gun."

Pint-size Pedro, who tips the scales at a lean 113 pounds, said he'd locked horns with humongous Margo each time he checked into the Riscu-luna hotel where she serves cocktails.

"With my route, I wound up staying at the inn about once a month — and that fatso banged me around every time," fumed the traveling after-shave salesman.

"I'd sit down in the lounge and she'd waddle over and spill a drink in my lap or lop me in the head with her tray. A couple of times I got up to use the bathroom and she walked right into me and knocked me flat."

Then one night pipsqueak Pedro, 43, went for a twilight dip in the hotel swimming pool — and the wide-bodied waitress landed on him with a belly flop that nearly blew him away.

"It must have been Margo's night off, because when she came out to the pool she was obviously drunk," the scrawny salesman recalled.

"In her swimsuit she looked like an overstuffed tomato and I told her so. She cursed at me and the next thing I knew she was standing above me on the high board, getting ready to dive.

"I begged her not to, but she said, 'I'm going to get you, creep!' And then she jumped and I saw her coming at me like a flying whale.

"The next thing I knew two strangers were pulling me out of the pool and Margo was gone."

Peeved Pedro tried to bring criminal charges against the belly-flopping blimp but prosecutors refused to go along. So he filed suit claiming the whopping waitress' body is a deadly weapon.

Medical expert explains why we sometimes feel tired and worn out

By EAGAN DUNN

Space aliens routinely invade the human body and rob it of energy, causing people to feel tired and worn out for no reason at all!

That's the word from Belgian virologist Francis Wagner, who discovered the invisible life forms in a two-year study of fatigue and low-energy syndrome.

"We certainly don't want to cause a panic but these things are everywhere," Dr. Wagner told reporters in Antwerp.

"The good news is that they pose absolutely no threat to life.

"They merely enter the body, siphon off enough energy to meet their demands and leave. When they need a recharge they find a new host and the whole cycle begins again," Dr. Wagner said.

Fatigue-causing invaders are so small we can't even see them

He found himself on the trail of the alien parasites in 1988. Curiously, they all suffered from when he got unusual CAT scan read weariness, fatigue and energy losses huge holes in dozens rundown patients that could not be explained by stress, depression or cancer, prime causes of such symptoms.

"The scans indicated that there were parasitic life-forms eating their victims," said Dr. Wagner.

"We soon found that the patients suffered when the life-forms were present only to regain their vigor when they left.

"At that point we knew we were dealing with parasites.

"Because they didn't behave like any others in the medical texts, we named the carnivores that they were not native to Earth, but came from outer space.

"There is no evidence that these intelligence," Dr. Wagner continued. Judging from their responses to mild electrical shocks, they are probably no more sophisticated than slugs or worms.

"I imagine that they are as old as man himself, maybe even older. It wouldn't surprise me at all if the 'demons of scripture' mentioned in the Bible are actually references to these life-forms."

Dr. Wagner said much more study is needed to determine if there is some way to combat or kill the space parasites.

Meanwhile he advises patients to combat fatigue "with that age-old rem-

Man killed by a cup of salt!

If ex-coal miner George Hirst had used just a pinch of salt on his supper he might still be alive instead of dead — after downing a cupful of the stuff.

Hirst got out a new bag of salt to season his roast beef and accidentally spilled a cupful over the meat. He ate it all and died the next day.

A pathologist in Doncaster, England, said Hirst, 68, died from a chemical imbalance caused by the salt.

FAWN STUNG BY BOSS'S SNUB!

WASHINGTON! beauty Fawn Hall has been dating heartthrob Bob Lowe, but she couldn't get to first base with rock's "Boss" man.

Leggy beauty Fawn Hall, who shot from Hill secretary to glitzy celeb thanks to her loyal for boss Ollie North, reportedly got the cold shoulder from rock's blue-collar guy Bruce Springsteen.

who's single-ha making the Farrah Fawcett hairstyle popular again, scurried backstage after Bruce's electrifying concert at Landover, Md., tingling with thoughts of meeting the dynamic singer.

Naturally, Fawn figured her recent creep up fame's ladder coupled with her dating spree with big-screen pretty boy Bob Lowe would be impressive enough to gain entry into Bruce's dressing room. But Fawn reportedly never made it to Bruce's door.

True to his working guy roots, "The Boss" wanted nothing to do with the famous beauty. "I don't like Ollie North and I don't approve of the things you did," snapped the music man to Fawn. "I'm a Democrat and I have nothing to say to you."

MAKE UP TO $6,000 A WEEK FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE!

Does the thought of making up to $194,000 in the next six months appeal to you?

Can you imagine how excited you will be when mountains of checks, cash and money orders come pouring into your mailbox every day? Are you willing to work 2 or 3 hours a day in your own home to achieve real wealth this year?

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, then I'm certain you'll want to learn more about my completely powerful GUARANTEED method of making up to $6,000 a week — right from your own home.

You will be able to start the business immediately — and your profits will be rolling in by the end of the first week.

By the end of the second week, you'll be thanking the day you read this message, because you could be $12,000 ahead of where you are now. By the 5th week you could have $30,000 in your pocket, and by the 10th week you'll have more money than you've ever seen at one time — up to $194,000 in cash!

[redacted] KY

Three years ago I was desperate for cash. My mother needed some expensive medical attention that I couldn't afford. I was working 50 hours a week, but still couldn't make ends meet. My car needed repairs and still wasn't paid for. Then the phone constantly threatened to turn off the phone. The gas and electric company were demanding money. I didn't have for any utilities. I didn't know where to turn. I had an uncle in Philadelphia with some money, but he had cut back and enough of his own problems.

I didn't know what to do. I looked through the Help Wanted ads in the newspaper every day hoping to find something to get me out. I never did. Day after day things got worse. I found myself gaining thinner. But I was determined to get out of the rut I was in.

Then one day I got lucky. While cleaning out my hallway closet, I discovered a dusty package underneath a pile of old magazines. The previous tenant must have forgotten to take it when he moved into his new home. Curious, I opened it up. Inside I found a manuscript marked CONFIDENTIAL.

I read through the papers inside. They contained an incredible money-making system which took me hours to read. I stayed up all night, fascinated with what I had discovered. I knew, right then and there, that my whole life was about to change. And it did.

I immediately put the secret system I discovered to use. Within two weeks, I was able to buy a new car. Within 8 weeks the doctors were paid off and I had $28,000 in the bank. After 10 weeks, I moved into a beautiful home, bought a new wardrobe, and took the very first real vacation I had ever had.

WHAT IS MY MONEY-MAKING SECRET?

Fortunately, this marvelous system of making money requires no investment capital or mercantile intelligence (I had neither).

It isn't a chain letter scheme or a multi-level marketing plan. It requires no personal selling and no office. You can work right out of your own home, spending 2 or 3 hours per day. That's exactly what I did. The entire system is designed for one person to easily handle, and is not like any other money-making system advertised today.

I've taken the entire plan and have rewritten it in plain, easy-to-understand English. I guarantee the success of the plan because I personally have used it for the past three years and have consistently made at least $6,000 each and every week of the year.

Classroom shocker!

Student said he had to go but his teacher said no

By JACK ALEXANDER

A teenage boy said he couldn't wait any longer when a teacher wouldn't let him leave class to go to the bathroom — and relieved himself on the classroom floor!

The 13-year-old embarrassed student was dragged to the principal's office after the teacher allegedly threw him to the floor and used him as a "human mop" to wipe up the urine, said Sandy, Utah, school superintendent Raymond Whittenburg.

Using the boy to "clean up the mess he'd made" is not acceptable behavior for a teacher, said Whittenburg.

Both the youngster and the 40-year-old unidentified male teacher paid the price for relief.

The boy was suspended for a week and the teacher was fired, according to school official Owen Harrison.

According to a police report filed by the boy's parents after the bizarre incident, here's what happened:

The boy asked to leave a wood-shop class at Union Middle School to use the rest room. When the teacher refused permission, the eighth-grader relieved himself in a trash can of the class.

When the teacher found out, he made the boy put on his ski parka, threw him to the floor and "mopped up the mess with the victim."

"Emotionally, he was a wreck," said the student's dad. "And, of course, he didn't smell too good either."

School officials claim the boy never asked for permission to use the rest room — and that's why he was suspended, said Harrison.

Whittenburg said that the teacher had been employed by the system off and on for only a month or so as a substitute teacher.

The teacher's personnel record contains no negative comments.

Mom in a zillion!

By SUSAN MADISON

Courageous mom Kate McKeating made headlines last year when she vowed to give away her first baby — a little girl born without a brain — so doctors could use her for spare parts.

Now she's making headlines again, but this time for a more joyous reason. She has just delivered her second child, a healthy normal baby boy.

"I feel like a mother to a zillion," said happy Kate, 25, who lives in North Belfast, Ireland. "I am the happiest woman in the world."

Kate gave birth last year to a daughter, Megan, who developed with only the most rudimentary brain.

She and her husband James decided against abortion so they could donate the organs of their doomed baby. Kate's two earlier pregnancies had ended in miscarriages and they wanted their personal anguish to help bring joy to other parents.

But shortly before Megan was born doctors decided that using her for spare parts was too risky.

Women's firstborn had no brain and she tried to give infant away — for spare parts!

Megan was born and died within minutes — and was promptly buried in a family plot.

When Kate got pregnant again, doctors told her the baby looked perfect. Nine months later her 6-pound 5-ounce son David was born.

"I cannot deny I have been worried ever since I discovered I was expecting again — terrified that something would go wrong," said Kate shortly after the birth of her healthy baby a few weeks ago. "Even though the doctors assured me that everything was fine, I was living deep down inside me that something awful could still happen.

"I could never be quite sure until the amazing moment when I held my son close for the first time, realized I was at last a mother and had a perfect healthy baby boy. I still wonder if it is a dream."

Kate and her husband have taken little David home to Bill at last the empty crib that caused them to quit practically. But they say they won't remember there is not a braver woman on this earth than Kate," said proud James, 31.

"Many women would have given up all hope. She insisted

First of all, it seems there is a certain kind of certain component that only grows in these countries. These have problem a people losing weight very quickly. I'm not sure what happens. Many, our natural Bengal tigers and some researchers were believe that eating particular plants can help people reduce his weight and stay in less weight.

Here is why. In small tigers naturally consume approximately 30% to 40% of everything the animals will eat from plants or HCA by short. Now, surprisingly to most dieticians around country, the HCA found in Garcinia Cambogia does three different things that help people lose weight.

(1) HCA Helps Stop Cravings
ABILITY TO KEEP ON WEIGHT
HELPS TO ITS FINAL LEVEL

Here's what it says about this on the scientific literature: "Over seven clinical findings shows overeating does when HCA substance is ingesting a long and stronger level of HCA substance in the Garcinia Cambogia reduced food intake 30% to 41 hours and 30% at 24 hours. In a presentation reported to substance, the research study showed who received after showed eating HCA substance better."

What does this mean to show people? It's very simple. In shorter show, one to two hours of the show's over and not almost more food inside stomach and never ever be hungry again!

(2) HCA Helps Keep Fat From
Be Turned Into Fat.
Energy Efficiency Increases
Fat Is Burned At Rest While Exercising

This is one the special ingredient. In study 1 HCA/Day Garcinia substance was from scientific literature was shows the people of HCA usage "Liquid IV is replaced hydroxycitrate that the optimal loss of substances is one half hour to one hour before eating, fat synthesis was reduced 30% and 15% respectively as these doses. Free can have given a total 5-6% substance."

In a nutshell, what all this scientific mumbo-jumbo means is that HCA helps your body to convert food into energy instead of fat.

Period

VANISHED: Company exec Jack [illegible]

Police say . . .

Exec takes $1.3 million — and runs!

An armored car company executive became the target of a nationwide manhunt after cops say he stole $1.3 million in cash from his firm's vault and fled — leaving his stunned wife with $30,000 in debts!

Authorities said Jack Quinn, the cigar-chomping 46-year-old general manager of Federal Protection Services in Riviera Beach, Fla., cleaned out the company safe then left his problems and his desperate family behind.

"I have to tell people my husband is not a criminal," said sobbing Pauline Quinn in the wake of her husband's disappearance. "It was the result of an absolute crackup."

Searching for clues to her husband's whereabouts, Mrs. Quinn opened the trunk of the family car and found $14,000 in stolen cash he'd apparently left behind for her. She immediately called police and turned the money in.

That left Mrs. Quinn and the couple's 13-year-old son, Michael, with $40 of their own.

"The rent is due and it's $1,000 a month," said Mrs. Quinn, who doesn't work.

Mrs. Quinn said her husband snapped under the incredible financial pressure on their family. The Quinns face debts totaling more than $50,000 and the Internal Revenue Service slapped liens on their personal property and garnisheed Quinn's wages for unpaid taxes.

Lt. Gary Hall of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said Mrs. Quinn became concerned when her husband, an ex-Marine and former Maryland police officer, was late getting home from work. Officials of the firm searched for Quinn for several hours, then called the authorities. When the electronic time lock set by Quinn on the company safe opened 36 hours later, officials found $1.3 million in cash gone.

BABY DROWNS IN CRIB

Heartbroken mom Lee Ann Rode discovered her baby dead in his bed — drowned after a leak from the ceiling filled his crib with [illegible]

Daniel Rode was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital near his home in Halstad, Minn. Authorities believe a toilet in the second-floor bathroom overflowed, sending a stream of water through the floor into the seven-month-old boy's bedroom.

"If you laid your head on the mattress, there was enough water on top to paint your fingers," Norman County Sheriff Larry Miller told The NEWS. "The baby was lying facedown.

"The crib had plastic bumpers around it so the baby couldn't bang himself on the side of the crib. Evidently that and the plastic sheeting on the mattress held the water in and caused there.

Miller said Mrs. Rode had put her baby boy, Daniel, to bed and waited until he fell asleep before leaving the house to visit her mother a half block away. Her husband, Lyle, was out fishing. [illegible] was furious [illegible] to watch TV.

A short time later Rode and the older child went to bed. Downstairs the baby slept in his crib. At

Dentist braces for crooked-teeth suit

Brigitte Clavet is suing her dentist, claiming that she wore braces for eight long years — and wound up with crooked teeth.

In fact, the Montreal, Canada, college student had to have the braces replaced and will need an operation to repair a deformity caused by them, she says.

Miss Clavet, 21, filed a $75,000 suit against dentist Dr. Michel Blais claiming the ugly braces not only didn't straighten her teeth, but also blighted her teen years, ruined her gums and gave her an inferiority complex.

Life's not so sweet for the. . . .

Candy bar kids

By ROSE GRADY

Day and night, Charles and Sophie Wall stuff their tummies with all the chocolate and other sweets they can eat — because without it they will die!

Charles, 11, and 8-year-old sister Sophie suffer from a rare enzyme disorder that prevents their bodies from turning natural fats into energy-producing sugar.

And that means their mum and dad must make sure they get their super-sweet fix every three hours, day and night.

Without it, they would slip into a deep coma and be dead in a matter of days.

"We live from day to day," declared 38-year-old mum Kate said from her home in Tiverton, England. "It's terribly stressful, but at least they're alive.

"If Charles and Sophie do slip overdue, they get a lot of chocolate or other sweets first. Then, when they finish, they get more of the same."

The bizarre disorder was diagnosed when Sophie was just two.

Before that, specialists were baffled as to why she and her brother were always fatigued and easily fell ill.

"Now we have to monitor everything they do," Kate said. "At the first sign of any illness, we rush them straight into the hospital.

"When I take them shopping I pack a bag of sweets in case they need something immediately. And they always carry glucose in their pocket."

While their unsuspecting chum dust of sweets spay around like a dream come true to their playmates, for Charles and Sophie it's a living night-mare with no end in sight.

One of the problems Kate has to deal with is the damage all the sweets are doing to her children's teeth.

"They drink Coke and lemonade through a straw so the sugar won't coat their teeth," she explained. "And we have a very good dentist for them.

"What else can we do? Unless they get a constant supply of sugar they will die — and we'd rather have our kids alive, even with false teeth," she said.

Cons threaten mom who spun kid in a dryer

Prisoners were so outraged when they learned a criminal had spun her child in a clothes dryer that they threatened her life — forcing officials to put her in solitary confinement for her own safety.

Judge John Hogan ordered that Deborah Allen, 28, be kept in isolation while serving an 18-month sentence for cruelty and assault on her toddling son, whose name and age were kept secret.

The woman from Digby, England, actually shoved the whimpering child into a dryer and laughed like a hyena while he spun round and round, the court heard.

Mrs Allen begged for leniency. But Judge Hogan wouldn't hear of it.

"This was a cruel and wicked thing to do," said the judge. "This child was so petrified he could not speak."

Giant stingray kills schoolboy swim champ

Like a bolt from the blue, schoolboy swim champ Jeff Zahmel keeled over dead in his tracks — one week after he had been slashed by a giant, leaping stingray!

By DICK DONOVAN

The 12-year-old boy — one of Australia's brightest hopes for an Olympic swimming gold medal in 1988 — was with his family in Mareeba, when death struck without warning.

"He had just finished dinner when he stood up from the table, and then dropped dead," Jeff's grieving uncle, George Zahmel, said. "It all just happened too fast. There was nothing anyone could do."

The bizarre event that eventually claimed the young champion's life came when he was on a fishing trip with his dad and family friends.

He was standing on the dock depths with the speed of a rubber-arrow-launched missile.

As the dolphin-shaped creature of the deep arched through the air, a deadly, 11-inch barb over the tip of its whiplike tail slashed the boy's chest and leg.

"It was a billion-to-one chance that he was hit," said John Thevenin, one of Jeff's swim coaches who was on the boat.

"The ray's tail lashed out and the barb ripped into his chest and leg."

Jeff was rushed to a hospital where a surgeon closed his wounds with 50 stitches.

He was released from hospital and returned home with his parents.

"He was a bit pale and sore from his injuries," his uncle said. "But he seemed to be recovering. Then he just dropped dead."

The boy, Australia's second-ranked swimmer in his age group, held Australia's 200-metre and 400-metre freestyle records in addition to many state records. "He was a terrific kid and a champion swimmer," the grieving uncle said. "Everyone expected him to be in the medals in the next Olympics. He was in a class by himself.

"What happened is devastating. We just can't believe that he's gone. It's such a waste of a young life. His parents . . . all of us who knew and loved him are heartbroken."

Thieving teens tee off golfers

A gang of elementary kids are terrorizing golfers at an exclusive country club by swiping balls off the course and vanishing into the woods.

"The women golfers are frightened. The men are angry," said Mary K. Moore, manager of the country club in ritzy Boca Raton, Fla.

Police said the gang of about five kids who are all around the age of 10, steal balls off the course and challenge golfers at the Exclusive Country Club to chase them into the woods.

"Out on the golf course we don't want to experience anything like that," said 71-year-old Al Lombardi after the gang swiped his friend's golf ball. "I warned them not to go into the woods, but they have guts. They run up like deer in there."

"Whenever we saw them out there, we got in our golf cart and went after them," the country club manager said. "But they run into the woods and we can't follow them in our golf carts."

A Geneva housewife accidentally discovers how to lose weight without dieting

A sample from anyone who says it sounds a touch "too easy." She says that you don't pay. There are no gimmicks involved, and she would not recommend one here anyway.

Red-faced cop gives naked driver a break

By PETE COOKE

A shocked cop chased down a speeder, walked up to the driver's window and discovered he'd stopped a female prosecutor — who was naked from the waist down!

Authorities in Bradenton Beach, Fla., and Officer Ken Robertson were on duty in the early morning hours when a 1988 Audi whizzed by his patrol car.

Robertson said he gave chase with his lights and siren on, but the car reached speeds of more than 80 m.p.h. before pulling over about two miles down the road. The officer walked to the driver's window to find 32-year-old Janice Bampang, an assistant state attorney, behind the wheel and Jerry Sferina, a fellow prosecutor, in the passenger seat.

Robertson said that while Sferina, 27, was fully clothed, Miss Bampang was wearing a shirt and nothing else.

The officer said he asked for her driver's license and registration, then Robertson asked the prosecutor why she was nude below the waist.

Robertson said Miss Bampang became "very rude" and informed him that, "There's no law against sporting a motor vehicle in the nude."

Robertson said that he decided just to ask the woman to get out of the car to take a roadside sobriety test "due to her quality."

When Robertson ordered Miss Bampang for fleeing a police officer and passing on a no passing zone the lawyer responded that "people in Sarasota like officers," saying he would hear from another Judge Walter Talley.

Miss Bampang was promptly suspended from the State Attorney's Office in Bradenton but the pair Sferina resigned from the prosecutor's office.

Marty spends a few pennies "borrowing" the product in all his demonstrations, then makes it up in the thousands. "It's easy," he says. "And anyone can do it." No personal selling is involved.

The idea is so new — the government and tax laws are finally to new! Twenty years "at hard labor" in a paper mill. He became disabled in 1985 and was forced to look for an easier way to make a living. After discovering the FREE product, it was all "clear sailing."

She's a [illegible] tease artist — but [illegible]

Send letters to Dotti, Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, FL 33462

Dear Dotti: The manager of my three perverted children is out nights at the Pink Pussy Cat, a topless strapping.

She's got pasties on so thick you can't see the objectionable nipples and varicose veins that cover up painted-on bikini panties. She's got wigs and flyest eyelashes and it don't know what all to make her look 19 again up there on the set. All I know is she don't look like nobody's mama.

She says she has to do this to keep our girls in their designer clothes and jeans they like to buy at the mall, but she's taking most of her tips to get the beauty stuff she needs so the kids aren't [illegible] and they don't have their drama home as might dismount either so I have to work two jobs.

Those kids are sure smart. I found that their mama's out there with just a couple of threads on and it's killing me at the moment wondering if any of the guys we've [illegible] the mall bothers her own daddy!

She was a stripper back in Alabama when I first saw her in it. Since the new laws it's a type of topless stripper at what's a strip joint. Freudian into a better kingdom.

Dear Dotti: Don't [illegible] If that wife-life got cute still you over with shaking her [illegible]

Mr. Clown has done me dirty

Dear Dotti: That guy and I have been sharing the apartment for three months. I thought it was wonderful that he loved me enough to move all his stuff over.

He was so cute and so sweet to me that at first it didn't bother me that every time I put down a glass, he washed it. He had to wash all the pots and pans before we ate it down to silver. The other day he remembers the carpet [illegible] and he's even got a ring around the tub for quick bidet use.

He's brought in 20 [illegible] of cooking and cleaning things. There's no more room in the kitchen so he has to keep stuff like the electric can opener under the bed. He has no room for boxing and when he does, he's got these awful dialogue bouts.

He's driving me crazy. What should I do? — Trea, He's visiting, Oregon

Cowboy girlfriend dresses like a man

Dear Dotti: I plan to be married to a wonderful gal who I have been going with for over a year. She's great lover, a good cook and very nice to me. My problem is that she hasn't made a dress since she was a child.

She insists on wearing all men's clothes like Levi's, cowboy shirts, ties and leather jackets. She even has a hard behind that is not [illegible] my friends think she is, and when we go out, people think she is a boy and I am the gay.

Should I ignore her clothes because of her good points or should I try to talk her into seeing a female doctor? — Where's the Girl, Washington

Dear Where's the Girl: If you can't [illegible] yourself. This dumb gal would look silly in a flouncy white bridal gown. How about you, darlin'?

Slobbermouth sis embarrasses me

Dear Dotti: My sister always embarrasses me with our friends and church friends by telling them how I caught my big toe in the bathtub faucet.

She loves to tell the whole stupid story: the soap, the grease, the washing, the pain, the [illegible] the ice packs, the doctor's bill and how I'm glad she's dead. She even tells the rachet nail polish I wore!

After sneaking through 18 episodes of this, I ended up [illegible] crapping how the fourth was dripping, so it stopped suddenly so she'd think I was [illegible] — an honest mistake. But I still don't see why I'm looking like a fool. So now I don't see the humor in it. I always look the bashful, until she told the story for the 20th time.

So should I grin and bear it, or just wring her fat neck? — Faint Path, Texas

Dear Faint Path: Carry a handful of Sit' naked baby pictures around with you to pass out while she's gossiping. The outpouring will whip right over you and land on her.

Editors: I would like to congratulate your newspaper on the consistent accuracy of your reporting. But I feel compelled at the same time to take issue with your recent story IS THIS ADAM & EVE?

While it is perfectly possible that Adam was a cavewoman and Eve was a space alien, I find it hard to believe that their remains were discovered in Eden. If the Swedish expert Dr. Bengt Nagland had spent as much time reading his Bible as he did looking at old rocks, he would know that Adam and Eve were cast out of Eden after [illegible] eating forbidden fruit, and that their remains would therefore be found somewhere to the east of Eden — not in the garden itself! — C.K., Palos Heights, Ill.

Dr. Nagland says he has read his Bible, he just doesn't take everything it says as gospel. He says he found the remains of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden — and that makes hogwash out of the Bible version of the story.

Wife's performance graded on teacher hubby's report card

By SUSAN JIMISON

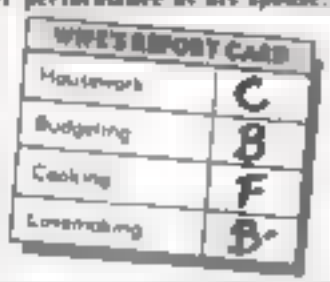
Strict schoolteacher Klaus Bongarts wanted to keep his wife Martina in line — so he handed her a monthly report card giving her grades on her performance as his spouse!

The 42-year-old Bielefeld, West Germany, man gave his bride good marks in hospitality but he told her she'd have to get better in bed before he could give her a top grade in housemaking.

"It was like being back in the classroom," said Martina, 28, who described Klaus's bizarre behavior in divorce court recently. "In his eyes I have always been a teenager sitting at a desk."

Martina said in court papers that she met her mate at the age of 19 and married him when she was 20. At first, she said, their marriage was happy.

But over the years Klaus — who teaches high school Latin — began to treat his wife like she was in the schoolroom. Every month he would hand her a report card, giving her a ranking on her wifely skills.



"Lovemaking," a typical report card said. "Adequate. Tender but doesn't take the initiative enough.

"Money. Adequate. Housekeeping ran out on the 26th. Cuisine poor in shape.

"Cooking. Poor. The meat is too salty and the potatoes are too raw. More variety needed.

"Hospitality. Good. Harry and Gerda enjoyed their last visit to us."

Martina said she put up with the report cards because she wanted to preserve her marriage — but then Klaus began handing her write-up daily reports on her work. She quit as domestic help with relatives but often that wasn't good enough — Klaus would hand them back ordering she write more neatly.

"He began to act more and more like a teacher," complained Martina.

"He can't accept that I'm now a woman."

After six years of marriage Martina demanded a divorce and the bizarre case is now before the courts.

Doctors can't explain why the 5-foot-1 mom has had repeated multiple births. They say the chances of having three sets of triplets in a row are about one in 4 million.

Mrs. Kishan cares for her children herself, with help from a woman who lives near her rural home.

Real-life creature cuts legend down to size

By [redacted]

Scientists have reportedly captured a living, breathing Bigfoot — but say the creatures [redacted] nothing like legend describes them!

BIGFOOT CAPTURED!

ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of Bigfoot's facial features

In fact, their amazing specimen stands less than five feet tall "and looks much more like a hairy Oriental" than the fearsome Goliaths of lore.

"Frankly, we're just a little bit disappointed in these findings," Dr. Alexandr Shalnev, the Soviet zoologist, told a gathering of scientists in Moscow.

"Bigfoot isn't much more than fifty. They run from their own shadows and anything else that creeps near them."

Dr Shalnev said he and a research team captured their Bigfoot along the Soviet Union's border with China in late March.

The creature is male and appears to be about 30 years old, he added.

It has shocking brown eyes, high cheekbones and is covered with a coat of thick brown hair.

"The Bigfoot initially refused to eat and almost died," said Dr Shalnev.

"But it eventually gave in and began to eat some grains and nuts.

"It is now thinking what intelligence it has to communicate with us. A significant difference between the apes and Bigfoot is that Bigfoot has the physical apparatus to speak, even though they apparently don't speak to the wild.

"What we are trying to determine now is just where Bigfoot stands on the evolutionary ladder," he continued. "It would appear the creature is somewhere between man and ape.

"The question is whether Bigfoot evolved independently or is the result of a sexual union between ape and man."

Such unions do not now result in the conception of offspring because genetic makeups differ, said Dr Shalnev.

But, he said, it is possible that long ago man and ape genetics did allow successful breeding.

"Bigfoot's Oriental features suggest that that was the case," said the expert. "I would suspect that Bigfoot now breed exclusively among themselves, however, to keep the species alive."

Just how Bigfoot came to be described as a fearsome giant is also a matter for debate, said Dr Shalnev.

"I assume witnesses were frightened and exaggerated Bigfoot's size out [illegible] in their own minds," he said.

"Of course Bigfoot in other parts of the world might have different characteristics. We won't know until specimens have been captured."

The Soviet's Bigfoot will undergo extensive testing over the next few months. Its temperament and health remain the fragile ti[illegible] permit public display. But Dr. Shalnev said he hopes to have photos and videotapes available for release next fall.

Stunned scientists say it's only 5 feet tall

SCALE shows profile of the newly-discovered Bigfoot, right, as compared to older depictions of the creature. Experts now believe that Bigfoot rarely top 5 feet'

A Swedish scientist told an audience in Oslo, Norway, that Bigfoot may, in fact, be living fossils — the last Neanderthals. "If the Neanderthal species was, indeed, destroyed by Homo sapiens, it would make sense for the remainder to slay out of the way of mankind," Dr Carl Berg-Nielsen said.

Ancient video set used for interplanetary communication!

By RAGAN DUNN

An archaeologist says the color TV set he found in an Egyptian tomb is at least 4,000 years old and may have been brought to Earth by space aliens!

Dr. Harald Laeger said the ancient set differs from those manufactured today in several key ways. For starters, it is designed to monitor only one channel.

It also has four triangular screens, one for each side of its gold-trimmed titanium cabinet.

"This is the most important archaeological find since King Tut's tomb," the expert told reporters in Geneva, Switzerland.

"Obviously those ancient Egyptians didn't have the materials, technology or need to build a television set. It must have been given to them.

"And when we think about who might have given the device to them, we have to look to a civilization from outer space."

4,000-year-old color TV found in Egyptian pyramid

Dr. Laeger refused to disclose where he found the set, either then to say it was supplied on the corner of a previously undiscovered tomb on the banks of the Nile.

The television and other efforts were judged to be at least 4,000 years old after testing, he said.

And while the set no longer works, the solar cells that were powered it do.

Electrical engineer Richard Monet inspected the TV and concluded that it is at least as sophisticated as the sets of today, said Dr. Laeger.

In fact, he is now trying to build a duplicate of the device on the theory that a working model might pick up TV signals from another planet just like it was believed the pyramids were did.

In the meantime, Dr. Laeger plans a return trip to Egypt to search for more evidence of extraterrestrial contact with the ancient Egyptians. "There's no telling what they left behind," he said. "We might even find a television camera, a VCR or blueprints for the pyramids."

Starving pilot's survival ordeal

He cuts off and eats his own leg after desert crash landing

By HENRY WEBB

A starving pilot whacked off his leg and ate it after crash-landing in a desert!

"My left leg was so badly crushed in the crash that it was dangling by a few tendons," said Peter Lind, 43, of his ordeal in Australia's Great Victoria Desert.

"I tried to crawl across miles of sand but it was hopeless," he continued. "After nine days I became so weak and delirious that I knew I was going to have to cut my leg off and eat it.

"I took out my penknife and hacked at the flesh and bone just below the knee. I was beyond pain. But I can remember grabbing my amputated leg in my hands and ripping flesh from it with my teeth."

The pilot sterilized the wound with his cigarette lighter and stopped the bleeding. As the days dragged on, he continued to gnaw at his severed left leg "as if it was a giant drumstick."

Thirteen hellish days after he lost control of his plane and went down, two Aussie surveying the area from a helicopter spotted Lind and flew him to a hospital.

He had emergency surgery and is expected to recover.

Outraged by girl's life of sin on the streets . . .

Gutsy mom kidnaps her own daughter!

Then cops free pretty teen & she goes back to work as a hooker!

By DICK DONOVAN

Heroic mom Kathleen Bell-Younger had her own daughter kidnapped off the street, then kept her tied to a bed for two days as she tried to get the girl to give up her sordid life — as a teenage prostitute!

But an anonymous phone call sent Canadian Mounties racing to Kathleen's suburban Vancouver home and within hours, 16-year-old Francesca Acosta was free as a bird — and doing business as usual.

"They tried to kick in the front door," the heartbroken, 36-year-old mother told The NEWS. "But they couldn't do it because my 73-year-old mother was bracing the door with her body.

"So they ran around to the back door and kicked that in. Then they took Francesca, got her clothes and put her in a taxi. Then she went straight back to her pimps. They have Mayra and Trevor."

The Mounties apparently couldn't care less that a young girl only months out of high school is a coke addict, hustling her body as a high-priced hooker.

But they didn't waste any time in warning Kathleen — herself divorced and the mother of a mentally retarded 7-year-old son — that she faces criminal charges for what hundreds of Kathleen's outraged supporters view as a necessary act inspired by a mother's unbounded love for her child.

"The police calls from schoolteachers who said they wish they had a mother who did for Francesca what I did for Francesca . . . try to save them from a long, dark tunnel to hell.

"And they all say the same thing . . . that they'll never get over the terrible nightmare of what they once were."

Kathleen's "crime" was in snatching her daughter off the street and taking her back home.

"I went in a sleazy bar and and her pictures. When he found her, he took her to a van where I and some family members were waiting.

"We took her home and bound her to her bed. We didn't want her to escape . . . and we thought she might go through a withdrawal of her cocaine addiction.

"We had her for two days before the police came and set her free.

"And she went straight back on the street."

In a later interview, Francesca gave no indication that she is unhappy with her life as a prostitute.

"It's not as bad as it seems," she explained. "I'm not depressed in any way. I do have friends. I'm not naive or gullible . . . and I wasn't tricked into doing this by a pimp, as my mom believes."

Feds charge taxpayer $400 for a 2¢ error

A delinquent taxpayer was tracked down by the IRS and put on notice that he owed the government of the United States of America two cents.

A Senate oversight committee looking into the incident said the hapless taxpayer received a form letter from the IRS informing him that he owed two cents and $400.29 in penalties.

The unfortunate IRS target was not publicly identified during the hearing. Senators said Uncle Sam either made an adding error or is "overanxious" in its collections.

Lawn sprinkler squabble sparks fatal stabbing

A father of two in his late 30s was stabbed to death by a neighbor in an argument about a lawn sprinkler, police said.

Manuel Escamilla, 38, of Pueblo, Calif., died at Seaside Hospital a kitchen knife, said Detective John Hubbard. Neighbor Frank Mack Jr., 41, is being held without bail on murder charges.

Police said Escamilla's wife, Linda, was watering their lawn when Mack asked her to get her to move the sprinkler. When she refused, he stormed her with a loud curse—kicking the water out of her hand, police said. Escamilla was stabbed in the side and died.

Doctor Discovers Cure For PSORIASIS

For years I sympathized with patients who were forced to live with the pain and embarrassment of Psoriasis.

Worse yet, those who tried to find relief by visits to doctors, dermatologists – who have tried creams, medicines and special treatments – have sooner or later been told there is no cure.

Medicine has been of no real help for many people, for either the physical or mental aspects of this affliction. But today, because of my new discovery, the Psoriasis sufferer can finally receive the help he or she has been hoping for.

NO MORE ITCHING, NO MORE SCALES...

As one sufferer related, "I couldn't go swimming or wear dresses because I was so ashamed and embarrassed. I went to doctors and dermatologists, used creams, took shots, slept in plastic suits. But there was no change. Then I started Dr. Connelly's program and early in October I was clear."

Another typical sufferer had been told there was no cure for Psoriasis. "I thought I'd go crazy. I was skeptical but in one month scales are virtually all gone, the itching has disappeared and I have more pep."

HERE'S THE ANSWER

Let me explain that this revolutionary approach involves the relatively new field of Bioenergetics. This has to do with the energy system of the body and how it is affected in health and disease. Conventional treatment for Psoriasis focuses on the effects of the disease. My plan can end Psoriasis for good because it stops the cause.

Question: What is Psoriasis?

A. The effect is obvious. Most Doctors treat only the effects. Our method goes right to the cause. Psoriasis is not skin deep. It is part of the body's entire system and must be treated that way.

Question: What makes your method so different?

A. All other Psoriasis treatments have temporary relief at best. Bioenergetics treats the cause of Psoriasis rather than the result. Only scientifically tested methods make the cause. And that's why it is so successful.

Question: What is your success rate?

A. Over 3 Psoriasis cases that have been treated by our method with the visible symptoms of Psoriasis gone, we have not had a single failure.

Mother is charged after . . .

3-year-old beats up baby brother

By JACK ALEXANDER

Cops arrested the mother of a 15-month-old boy who was bitten at least 20 times, kicked and beaten in a jealous rage — by his 3-year-old brother.

"It was the most vicious attack I've ever seen by a child that age," said Boulder, Colo., detective Sgt. Terrence Harman.

"And when their mother found them, the baby was crying hysterically, but the little boy was sitting on the floor playing with his toys as if nothing had happened."

The mother was charged with child neglect and given a summons to appear in court. Police wouldn't identify the woman or her children.

The children were playing as a lad while the mother visited a next-door neighbor. She returned a half hour later and they were OK, so she went back to the neighbor's, Harman said.

"But when she checked on them a half hour later the baby was up the stairs screaming from his injuries and the older boy was playing with his toys," said Harman.

The mother took the infant to the hospital and emergency room personnel notified police, who didn't believe it at first the baby had been beaten by his brother.

"But it all adds up," said Harman. "The bite marks match the 3-year-old's bite."

Both children are still with their parents. The father was working when it happened. Counseling has been recommended for the 3-year-old.

Cops hunt thief who buried cars in his backyard

California cops are seeking an ex-con in a car theft scam — after finding cars and trucks buried in the suspect's yard.

Deputies were questioning Marty Cragg, 36, in the bizarre case when he jumped out of a window of his Hesperia home and disappeared.

Cops were tipped off to the strange goings-on when a neighbor called to say he saw Cragg use a backhoe tractor to bury a 1978 Dodge pickup truck in his backyard.

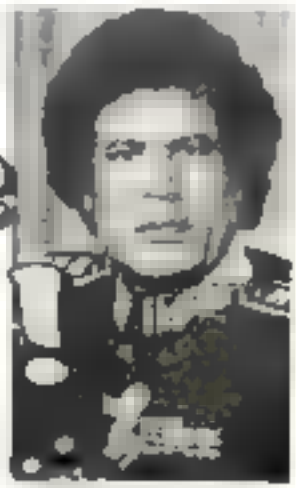
Has [illegible] Mo[illegible]r lost his Mrs?

His heroes are the 3 Stooges!



LIBYAN leader is hooked on videotapes of his three heroes Larry, Moe and Curly.

By LAUREL DOWN

Loony Libyan bigwig Moammar Gadhafi is still so sore over the U.S. bombing of Tripoli that he sits in his tent day after day — sulking and staring at old Three Stooges movies!

. . . and goofy Gadhafi has named his 3 prize camels Larry, Moe and Curly

"Moammar was plenty weird before, but now he's totally flipped out," said former Gadhafi pal Ali Adjina, who recently defected to France.

"He just sits there watching the Stooges videotapes and getting like a spoiled child. He used to idolize world leaders and men of war like Napoleon and Alexander the Great.

"Now he looks up to nobody but Larry, Moe and Curly."

The pedigreed potentate lost the last of his marbles after American bombers blitzed Libya in the spring of 1986, Adjina said.

"Moammar was infuriated by the attack but there was nothing he could do about it," said his exiled sidekick.

"He stamped his feet and sulked and screamed at his own people, but he knew he was really helpless to retaliate and that made him absolutely crazy.

"For a time he even wore makeup and dresses and high heels, but he pulled and it was hard to tell he wasn't a lady. It was most embarrassing for those of us who served under him."

The wacky Arab erected a large tent in his compound years ago and kept a camel tethered nearby as a reminder of his nomadic desert days.

Several months ago, Adjina said, most of the camels left that tent with the Three Stooges tapes and he's scarcely been seen since.

"He watches them silly things over and over again, day after day, until he's so bleary-eyed he can't see anymore and he falls asleep," said his former buddy.

"He especially likes the one where the Three Stooges shoot themselves off their wheels.

"Sometimes he claps his leg and laughs, but mostly he just sits there staring and sulking like a child who has been sent to his room."

When a frantic friend gave Gadhafi three prize racing camels in a bid to cheer him up, the daffy dictator had the magnificent animals killed and stuffed.

Then he stood the stuffed beasts outside his tent — with signs around their necks identifying them as Larry, Moe and Curly.

"The Colonel has gone off the deep end before, but I'm afraid this time he's gone for good," Adjina said.

"The other day he started laughing to himself in that idiotic way the fat Stooge does. Praise Allah nobody else was around to hear him.

"I tried to tell him it wasn't right for a man of his stature to spend all day watching the Three Stooges — and that's

Inmates charged with assaulting girl, 14

An entire city was outraged when authorities reported that a 14-year-old girl had been kidnapped, raped and thrown off a bridge by two lunatics who were let out of a mental hospital on a day pass.

Canadian officials said the teenage victim, abducted from a bus stop in London, Ontario, was in fair condition with head injuries after the ordeal.

She was unconscious when she was thrown off a 12-foot bridge and came to after hitting the water.

Police said the victim swam and drove her to a nearby vacant building where she was beaten and sexually assaulted.

She was unconscious when the two fiends left the building, but managed to stagger to the home of a passerby who took her to a hospital.

Police said the victim was then driven to a second vacant building where she was again beaten and sexually assaulted.

Then the two fiends dragged her to the edge of a bridge and threw her into the water.

Police said the victim swam to the bank and

HOW VALUABLE ARE SMALL DIAMONDS...?

New York Diamond Seller to Give Away Up to $10 Million Dollars* Worth of Small Diamonds All for Same Low Price Regardless of Size

NEW YORK-One of New York's wealthiest companies, whose sales last year exceeded $100 million dollars, today announced to its sources and suppliers in the diamond trade that because small diamonds allow more small profits, the company will acquire up to $10 million dollars' worth of small diamonds and give them all away to the public for the same low price regardless of any differences in size, as part of an unusual marketing experiment to be conducted by RBM Limited for at least 90 days.

Who is eligible to receive a diamond ...?

Anyone who mails a request before the end of 1981 is eligible to receive a diamond. Simply send your name and address to the company address below and indicate the number of diamonds you would like to receive.

How large are the diamonds ...?

Diamond size or weight is traditionally measured in "carats" (one to "points" (100). A genuine polished 1/2 carat single-cut diamond is a carat and that contains 100 points (1/100 of genuine diamond weight). All the diamonds to be distributed during the marketing experiment are genuine polished 1/2 carat single-cut diamonds that range in size or weight from .10 carat to .50 carat of genuine diamond weight.

How valuable are the diamonds ...?

Diamonds of the size and quality as used in many kinds of jewelry ranging from simple pieces sold at relatively low prices by large mail order companies at quite elegant prices ultimately selected by as much as $1999.00 to $4000.00 by America's largest and most prestigious jewelry stores and catalogs.

How do jewelers set such diamonds ...?

Jewelers often set diamonds such as these in "clusters" or "pave" (as many as 100 in one piece) ranging from approximately 1/2 to 2 TCW total diamond weight. Well known jewelers also sell special designer pieces in which these diamonds are the setting.

A solitaire diamond is a single diamond that stands alone. The ones used in the setting. When designer rings, earrings, pendants and necklaces are set with solitaire diamonds the diamonds are usually little bits and pieces of the best that can't be used in solitaires or other jewelry pieces such as these.

No individual sparkle possible ...

Because so many diamonds must be distributed during the marketing experiment, it was not cost efficient to separate each stone individually and to specify which one should be attributed to the person for distribution. It should also be pointed out that all diamonds like these are cherished primarily by many men and women for the feel and warmth of their stone type. You'll love your new piece of jewelry.

In order to accommodate as many persons as possible the company is limiting the number of diamonds to be given away to 1 per person. Only one request per family, please. The total number of diamonds to be given away is limited to the number of diamonds in the total worth of small diamonds as the public during the above mentioned marketing experiment.

Every diamond is a genuine precious stone.

Each diamond in the sets was sold quality as those previously advertised by the diamond distributor from whom the diamonds were acquired. Accordingly, and separately sold in the most distinguished New York Jewelers. The purchasers privileges of Authenticity will accompany each diamond.

All sets have prices — only $9 regardless of size

All diamonds will be distributed to the public at the same low price of only $9 per diamond regardless of size. Requests will be filled in the order received. The company reserves the right to limit the number of diamonds that any one person or family may get delivered to each one request or apply to purchase orders at any of its discretion.

Your money refunded without question

You are free to return your diamond for a full refund at any time within the first 10 days. The company will even reimburse you for the return postage.

There is no limit during the next 10 days.

Because of the company's large advertising budget and the company's right to change the marketing experiment and anything further notice.

To avoid disappointment, mail your DIAMOND REQUEST FORM at once as early as possible

YOUR DIAMONDS SENT FREE OF CHARGE
(if you decide)

EXTRA BONUS IF YOU RESPOND WITHIN THE NEXT 11 DAYS

Many of the diamonds to be acquired by the marketing experiment and although by act of purchase each one may average and medium. The company does not wish to make the considerable sales potential of diamonds, many diamonds have more average. Therefore, it has agreed to ship all such diamonds to you in their original settings at no extra charge (all weights, of course, stated in points (100 points per carat). Should you decide not to keep your diamonds upon receipt, you should return them to us and we will refund your money in full, less the cost of postage and handling.

Jailbreakers leave sassy 'thanks' note

Two men who escaped from a Louisiana stockade thoughtfully left a note thanking their jailers — for furnishing the tools they used in the break out!

A Concordia Parish sheriff's deputy said 36-year-old George Hunter and Ronnie Batiste used a hammer, screwdriver and hacksaw to break into an air shaft in their cellblock.

Teacher: Kids' lies ruined my life!

OUSTED teacher Lou Ann Hogan claims she was framed in high school sex scandal.

By DICK DONOVAN

Lou Ann Hogan's dream of being a teacher was shattered less than two years after it became a reality — because four boys claimed she had been the lover of a student who took his own life!

Three of her unidentified young accusers are students at Clark High School in San Antonio, Tex. The fourth boy is a former student.

In sworn statements, the youths claim they watched through a window as the beautiful 24-year-old teacher had sex with 17-year-old Chad Cadenhead, a troubled Clark High student who later killed himself.

Despite the testimony of friends who said Lou Ann was out of the city on the date the alleged acts took place, the school district's board of trustees deliberated for roughly 15 minutes before unanimously voting to fire her.

On the other hand, School District Superintendent Jack Jordan argues that Lou Ann did get a fair hearing.

"The board deliberated in listening to the testimony for five hours," he said. "They asked questions all along the way. The teacher had an opportunity to present her side.

"The board saw it the same way the principal did and [illegible] same way I did."

And with that vote, Lou Ann's professional career as a teacher came tumbling down.

Lou Ann is not happy about losing her job. But what bothers her most is the way she lost it. She's convinced that school trustees turned deaf ears to the hours of evidence she presented that proved the allegations are lies.

"I [illegible] appalled," she said. "We [illegible] and husband Mike] [illegible] a part not to get [illegible]. I expected to get fired. I did not [illegible] the insensitivity and all the ridiculous things that went on.

"At the very first I thought, 'How can they believe these kids over me flatly denying it?' After awhile, I did start to worry. Then I started to think if (the students' parents) have money, they could make a difference."

A few weeks later, Lou Ann was notified by District Superintendent Jack Jordan that he was recommending she be fired for immorality. It was then she realized that her teaching days were over.

Lou Ann's enduring problems stem from her being friendly with her students. Many of them would drop by to chat with her.

One of those students was Chad Cadenhead, who, Lou Ann said, had spent some time in a psychiatric facility before he took his own life. She believes the boy had started rumors they were having an affair to impress his friends.

But why, after Cadenhead was dead, would the four boys claim they had seen the two having sex?

"Their loyalty was to Chad," Lou Ann said. "It's a distinct possibility the kids felt bad they weren't able to do anything (to prevent the suicide).

"And maybe they think his death was my responsibility because Chad had a crush on me."

While Lou Ann claims the teens invented the story, their attorney, Robert Thornton, insists they are telling the truth.

"These boys have no personal vendetta against her," Thornton told The NEWS. "They are good boys who are telling the truth.

"Cadenhead had told them what he and the teacher were doing and the boys didn't believe him. So he invited them over to watch and see for themselves."

Granny's knickknack turned out to be a nice shiny bomb

The unusual brass ornament grandmother Doreen Burley polished and displayed for 30 years was a deadly live bomb!

Incredibly, the old woman would still have the shell in her mantel if she hadn't spotted one just like it in an antique weapons shop and alerted police to her own bomb.

"The constable wasn't at all impressed when I suggested taking it to the Army myself," said Mrs. Burley of Rawtenstall, England.

The next day, she added, a bomb disposal squad took the 1918 British-made shell away "as though it were a priceless piece of Ming china."

"They told me if it had fallen it could have blown the place to bits — and me with it," said Mrs. Burley. "I just couldn't believe I had been polishing a bomb all those years."

Mrs. Burley isn't sure where she got the shell but thinks she picked it up in an [redacted]

Divorce battle is CB radio's top-rated hit

By SUSAN JAMISON

Ron Harris worried that his neighbors were only getting one side of the story in his divorce battle with his wife — so he tapped his wife's telephone and broadcast her most intimate conversations over the CB radio.

Astonished residents of Morton, Ill., listened for a month, or more, while Cathy Harris discussed the details of her private life with friends. Finally a neighbor recognized her voice and called her to tell her what was happening.

Embarrassment Cathy to tell The NEWS. "It was girl talk we were sitting up on the phone. I don't really go into detail about what I said."

Harris, 33, says his wife was trying to win a series of long conversations about her extramarital affairs. It didn't turn out to be anything damaging. She says she thought her husband was taping her private conversations and decided to "expand a little bit on my behalf."

When the housewife and mother of three learned that her phone was tapped she pressed charges against Harris. He admitted he rigged up the CB tap and was arrested for wiretapping.

"She was telling everyone that I was the bad egg," Harris told The NEWS. "Then she got on the phone and told her friends what she'd been up to. I figured that everybody that heard her would know who the bad egg really was. I was defending my reputation in the community."

Harris, whose divorce from Cathy became final on March 21, faces a maximum of 2 years in prison if he is convicted. He was fined $1,000 for his actions. He says he turned a profit, but reports soon found out the gadget was completely harmless.

"If what I did was illegal, I did it because she was driving me crazy. I probably wasn't stable at the time," Harris said.

"I'm not a bad person. I just put her voice on the CB for everyone to hear so they could make their own decisions about things."

Heart risk for smokers' wives

Wives of chain-smoking men are more likely to have a heart attack, says a new medical study on smoking.

Non-smoking women married to men who smoke 20 or more cigarettes a day have a 30 percent greater chance of a heart attack than non-smoking women who are married to non-smoking men.

A woman who smokes 25 or more cigarettes a day has six times as likely to have a heart attack and eight times as likely if married to a smoker.

The study was conducted by Julia Palmer of Boston University Medical School.

It involved 1,300 women between the ages of 20 and 54.

Did man's strange obsession lead to murder?

By LACY ALEXANDER

A late-arrested escaped con is accused of killing a couple of friends because he was sexually obsessed with their 14-year-old daughter — who was raped and murdered.

Jessie James Mack, 35, was captured by the FBI in Memphis, Tenn., and returned to Detroit where he was jailed on three counts of murder.

The blood-spattered bodies of William and Jacqueline Rice, both 32, and of their daughter, Tameka, was discovered in an alley the next day. She had been raped and strangled.

"We have information that Mack may have stayed with the Rice family or at least kept in touch with them after he escaped from a Detroit halfway house," said police spokesman Allene Ray.

Mack was transferred to the halfway house for rehabilitation last July after serving 13 years in prison for manslaughter. He escaped three days later.

Cops believe the suspect and Rice had been out together the night of the murders. Rice's body was found at 3:50 a.m. He had been shot in the head.

Three hours later cops discovered the corpse of Mrs. Rice, who had been shot in the chest, about three miles away.

An around-the-clock search for their missing daughter ended the next evening when Tameka's partly nude body developed an obsession with Tameka the minute he met her, said cops.

Wow! It's a girl!

SURROUNDED by loved ones, Michele and Kim Davis are the happy parents of quints. They are shown in the neonatal intensive care unit of a Boston hospital with their babies.

HAPPY parents Kim and Michele Davis show off the tiny footprints of their newborn quints. There are three girls and two boys.

. . . and a girl . . . and a girl . . . and a boy . . . and another boy!

Four years of anguish ended with five bundles of joy for Kim and Michele Davis when they became the proud parents of the world's tiniest surviving quints.

By SUSAN HAMSON

The Redford, N.H., couple diagnosed that their doctors ruled for a long time to have a baby, but after four years of disappointment, their doctors doubted Michele would ever have a pregnancy. The Davises decided to take one last gamble and enrolled in a multiple baby program — and now they're mom and dad to Jessica, Kelly, Natalie, Phillip and Matthew.

"Everyone's doing great," Kim Davis, 30, told The NEWS. "And reality has set in — we really do have five kids.

"We were ready to give up trying to have our own baby and adopt, but we got lucky. I hope other infertile couples see what happened to us and keep on trying. It's worth all the heartbreak when you finally see your babies being born."

The litter of little Davises was born 12 weeks early and ranged in weight from 1 lb 8 ounces to 3 lb 6 ounces. Already three of the tiny tykes are breathing without a respirator and doctors say there's an excellent chance all will survive.

Mother Michele is home recuperating from the cesarean birth, but the babies will be hospitalized for several months until they gain weight and are strong enough to join their parents.

The Davises visit them each day just to marvel at what they've done.

"Michele says she can't believe she carried all of them," Davis said. "She went into the hospital in her 19th week of pregnancy and stayed in bed until they were born 8 weeks later. It was an ordeal for her, but the pregnancy had two wonderful moments.

"One was when she had a sonogram and we saw five tiny hearts beating away. The other was the delivery. Everything in between was real tough."

The Davises plan to take advantage of offers of friends and relatives to help care for the babies. And after the first few weeks the children are home, they'll probably hire a nanny, Davis said.

"One thing will keep me going while they're babies," Davis said.

"I know that once they can get around on their own I'll come home from the office at the end of the day and see five little faces peeking out the window. Five little children waiting for Daddy to come home — imagine what a wonderful thing that will be."

ARIES

Mar. 21-Apr. 19

All signs indicate that an unusual opportunity may be coming your way and you should be prepared to act fast. Seek out advice if necessary, but don't waste any time.

Your Aries tendency to be impatient could cause problems as you strive to reach an important objective. Concentrate on completing each step and your goal will be easier to achieve.

A simmering family dispute is likely to reach the boiling point in the week ahead.

TAURUS

Apr. 20-May 20

Signs indicate that others at work and exercise could pay off handsomely in the week ahead. Forget about past failures and plunge ahead with plans to get by obstacles.

Long-standing plans may be suddenly derailed, but if you explore all options, things will get back on track. Listen to those with more experience and you'll be pleasantly surprised.

Your Taurus sense of loyalty could be tested when someone you trust tries to take advantage of you.

GEMINI

May 21-June 20

You may suddenly find yourself stuck in the middle of a squabble between two friends. Use your Gemini cheerfulness to ease the tension, but let them settle their own differences. Be smart! Be neutral!

Strive not to let a raving lunatic overwhelm you with his or her opinions. You have far too much to do and to be put off by someone of no consequence.

Those of you yearning for a little romance may find it in your new hairdo before the week is out.

CANCER

June 21-July 22

You may be wearing on your lids with too much worry about risky actions already taken. You've played your cards to their best advantage. Now, let the chips fall where they may.

As a Cancerian, you have a great capacity for compassion and sensitivity to others. Keep them in that frame because deep may be silently pleading for your help.

As the week comes to a close you may find that a change will do you more good than a rest.

LEO

July 23-Aug. 23

Your outgoing personality and confident Leo manner make you a shining star at social occasions. But don't burn yourself out. You'll stand out in the crowd even if you don't hog the attention.

Saturday is a good time to set aside your social side and take care of personal business. Don't be afraid to turn down invitations.

Shopping could be hazardous to your bank account this weekend as you feel like splurging on luxury items.

VIRGO

Aug. 24-Sept. 22

Your tendency to be unselfish of late has caused you to spend your energies helping others. Pull back this week and take some time to reassess your priorities and goals.

You've been dreaming of travel to far-off places. Don't leave plans at the dream stage. Make definite plans to travel to the far spot of your choice before the year is out.

You've been very watchful of your budget. Time to step being so tight. Spend a little this weekend on a dinner and perhaps a movie.

LIBRA

Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Soothe! There's a big mouth who's been making your life miserable for some time now and you may be feeling the urge to let him have it — but this isn't the week. Hold your temper and roll with the punches. It's important to show others that you're a bigger person than the old grinding will ever be.

Your Libra helpfulness could inspire someone with money to end you in on it.

It's a perfect time to socialize with someone new.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Is all that humdrum getting you down? Well, get a grip on yourself. Events begin unfolding this week that could plunge you into a life of excitement and tightrope-walking adventure — the kind of stuff you thought happened only in the movies.

Before it's over, you may be longing for some of that old familiar peace and quiet.

Don't count on others for advice in the coming days. Rely on your own Scorpio common sense.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You may be up to your chin in projects this week, Sagittarius, so remember to give yourself some well-deserved rest and relaxation.

This may be the perfect week to indulge your Sagittarian love of socializing by arranging to catch up on old friends and loved ones.

There's a good possibility of financial gain in the next few days, but luck plays a big role in your business affairs. You can afford to take a chance when it comes to money matters.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You may face important decisions in the next few days, Capricorn. Pay close attention to detail and your sharp mind should help you make the right choices.

Someone near and dear to you may have worries you know nothing about. Be a good listener and offer to help if help is needed.

Your planets point to adventure this week. This is an excellent time to try something new. Get out of the house, meet new people. Make up a hobby.

If your birthday is this week . . .

The year ahead promises to be one of the most spectacular yet, marked with sweeping changes in your financial status and romantic life. Plan quickly for monetary gains and don't overlook any possibility. You may have to work a little harder this week — but the rewards you get by year's end will make it all worthwhile.

Expect your love life to take off in a new direction. The going may be rough at first but you'll soon find yourself happier than ever.

Your social life is definitely on the

AQUARIUS

Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You are very tolerant of other people's weaknesses because you're an Aquarian. This also may be one of your weaknesses. Perhaps if you were less tolerant, you might have a better influence on them.

A rewarding new challenge in the week ahead may cause you to change your perspective on life. Rely on your confidants (other than negative friends and relatives).

Why not pretend yourself with a weekend trip alone or with a close

PISCES

Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Stop living in a make-believe world and see life as it really is. Your Pisces tendency to be unrealistic may be keeping you from solving personal and business problems.

Take advantage of a tip this week that may improve your bank account. It could be the financial break you've dreamed about. Get sound advice from experts.

People may try to put you down because of their own insecurities. Don't let them get under your skin.

Final fling of AIDS suicide cop!

SHERIFF'S Deputy Juan Quintana thought he had caught AIDS from a woman so he took his own life.

By PETE COOKE

A confused cop who was convinced he was dying of AIDS spent his life savings on a wild three-week fling in cities across the country before checking into a plush hotel where he killed himself.

Sheriff's Deputy Juan Quintana set off on his bizarre odyssey after telling his supervisor in Houston that he needed a week off because of a back problem.

The 41-year-old Texas deputy pulled his money out of the bank and packed his dress uniform into the new black Mercury he paid off his credit table and drove away.

In his apartment Quintana left behind a cryptic letter claiming that an enemy had tracked him while sleeping with a girl who was infected with AIDS. Convinced that he caught the deadly disease, Quintana decided to kill himself.

"He said he had AIDS and (suicide) was the only sensible thing to do," said his sister, Norma Martinez.

As he traveled Quintana kept a detailed diary of what he called his "great adventure." Quintana's last fling took him to New Orleans, Birmingham, Ala., Knoxville and Nashville, Tenn., before he headed for his final destination in Florida.

After stops in Tallahassee, Tampa and Fort Lauderdale, Quintana arrived in Miami in early July. Quintana stayed in the best hotels partying with girls he hired from escort services.

Once he reached Miami, Quintana left his car in an airport parking garage, checked into the Embassy Suites Hotel and prepared to die.

The burly 6-foot ex-army sergeant sent $900 in cash to his mother with a note that said, "Mommy, I love you very much. I don't need this anymore, you use it."

Quintana taped a note to his hotel room door, telling the maid not to come in and to get a security guard. Inside the room detectives discovered two notes, one saying, "I'm very sorry about the mess. Please forgive me. Give all my property to my family."

Quintana had wrapped $27 around the second note, which said, "This is my last $27. I want to give it to the maid that is unfortunate enough to find my body. Gee, I hope she sent me warning note before she breaks. Again, really sorry about the mess."

Authorities said Quintana sat down on the floor and put the barrel of one pistol against his chest and the barrel of another in his mouth and pulled both triggers.

Following an autopsy, medical authorities in Miami said that Quintana was in perfect health before his suicide.

He didn't have AIDS.

Cops amazed by . . .

Crime-busting psychic

By JACK ALEXANDER

Baffled cops probing the brutal slaying of a wealthy businessman got important new evidence about his killers — thanks to an incredible, crime-busting psychic.

She's solved 65 murders and 100 other cases that baffled lawmen nationwide

"I'm justice-oriented. I don't like to see murderers running around loose," said psychic Carole Pete, who has helped solve at least 65 murders and 100 other crimes around the country.

Mrs. Pete — who flew from her home in Little Rock, Ark., to Dyersburg, Tenn., to help deputies find the killer of Bill Pierce, who was stabbed to death in 1988.

"We had believed all along that three people were involved in the killing," said Sheriff's Capt. Wilton Lewis. "Mrs. Pete had no way of knowing that. In fact, she had no advance knowledge of the case, whatsoever.

"She made a believer out of me when we showed her a dozen mug shots and she picked out two of the men we suspect in the murders," he said. The other suspect's photo wasn't among the dozen.

"Three men walked into Mr. Pierce's office at Pierce's Wholesale. He knew them quite well," Mrs. Pete told The KENT. "One was a relative and the other two were friends of the relative. Mr. Pierce was stabbed several times in the chest and hit on the head with a pop bottle. His throat was slit so deeply he was almost decapitated."

She said the killers were heavily involved in drugs. Capt. Lewis said robbery was the motive, but the brassy psychic thinks it was a crime of vengeance.

Mrs. Pete has used her supernatural powers to help solve crimes in Colorado, Texas, California, Pennsylvania and Mississippi. She is paid nothing for her efforts, except expenses.

"I'm able to put myself in the body of the victim by holding an object that belonged to him or a photo of him," she said. "A murder is so traumatic there is high energy around these objects. I feel what the victim feels. His thoughts are my thoughts. If the victim sees the killer, I see the killer."

The gifted psychic doesn't worry about being the target of the crooks she helps put behind bars.

"Naturally, the police need evidence to arrest and get a conviction," she said. "But what I see and feel in the psychic world isn't enough to put a killer behind bars."

No one has been arrested in the three-year-old slaying of Pierce, according to Capt. Lewis.

"But Mrs. Pete helped us a lot," he said. "She gave us a lot of information which turned out to be true."

DEDICATED crime-fighter Carole Pete donates her psychic talents to police for free because she believes in justice.

Business booming for doggie pooper-scoopers

Rick Collins and Joel Potter like to say they are No. 1 in the No. 2 business. That's right, they scoop up dog poop for a living!

The San Jose, Calif., business partners charge $8 a week to clean people's yards of the messes their pets leave behind.

So far they have 100 paying customers who like their service and sales pitch, which goes: "We pick up where your dog left off. No load too large, no dog too small. If your yard starts to smell, give us a yell. We've never too pooped to pick it up."

Customers pay Potter and Collins once a month.

"If they don't pay," said Potter, "we'll bring it back!"

Animals go ape

Gigantic wild animals went on a rampage, leaving one man dead and another seriously injured.

The attack occurred in the rural outskirts of Nairobi, Kenya, where a 60-year-old man was stomped to death by several elephants. The day before, a 35-year-old man suffered a horrible wound when he was attacked and killed by an infuriated hippo, said authorities.

Injured

By IRWIN FISHER

Soviet doctors are treating three space aliens who survived a fiery starship crash in Siberia late last year, a West German surgeon reports.

Dr. Ulrich Loewe said documents obtained from a highly-placed Kremlin source say the aliens received massive burns and internal injuries in the crash but are expected to recover fully.

The secret report also says the aliens are collaborating with the Soviets while waiting for a rescue ship from their native planet, the

It tried to park a BMW in the space already occupied by Wright's car — pushing the Ford through the railings surrounding the garage. "I thought it was a joke at first," said Wright, 40, after his car had been towed to safety.

WANT TO GIVE YOUR HEART A REST? TRY JOGGING

Joggers and others who run a lot are really resting their hearts, says an amazing new medical study.

Three Cleveland, Ohio, doctors say people who exercise actually save heartbeats because their resting heart rate is lower than people who don't exercise. If a person lived 75 years and had a resting heart rate of 72 beats per minute, that person would use 2.8 billion heartbeats in his life, said Dr. James Sother.

The doctors then tested a person, between the ages of 20 and 30, who ran 45 minutes a day, five days a week. While the runner's heart rate would be 60 beats per minute, the doctors' calculations — which assume the runner's resting heart rate would return to 72 beats per minute after running ceased at age 60, it would take the runner 99.4 years to use up the 2.8 billion heartbeats. That would extend his to cardiovascular fitness, is only 46 beats per minute.

UFO crew in Soviet hospital

A TOP MEDICAL TEAM like this one helped save the lives of three extraterrestrial visitors. The surgeons wore protective helmets to guard against alien viruses. Below, the Kremlin in Moscow, where experts believe the rescue efforts for the aliens were probably coordinated.

re are vague but the overall nage is clear," he contin- . "These extraterrestrials their lives to the Russians intend to repay them in a substantive way.

"I can't speak for the aliens, course, but it's obvious that Russians expect to get the hnology, training and hard- re to build advanced ships of their own."

Soviet officials would neither confirm nor deny Dr. owe's report but indicated that a statement might be forthcoming.

The expert himself insisted that the Kremlin enjoys "unimpeachable" — d challenged Soviet boss Mikhail rbachev "to issue a full statement on situation immediately."

"Dealing with an alien civilization must be a unilateral initiative," said Lorenz. "The entire world must be involved. It's not an overstatement to say that the future of mankind is at stake."

Dr. Lorenz's documents said the starship crashed on December 28 due to an unspecified mechanical malfunction.

The Soviet military had the starship under radar when it went down, he added, and were able to mount a rescue mission within minutes.

At least nine alien crewmen were said to have perished in the crash. The three survivors were airlifted to an undisclosed military hospital, where they underwent surgery and skin-grafting for their burns and injuries, the documents said.

Strangely enough, a full description of the aliens was blacked out of the report. But a later reference suggests that they look like humans with the exception of "unusually large, bulb-shaped heads."

Dr. Phillip Coleon, the Dutch UFO researcher, echoed Dr. Lorenz's call for full disclosure of the incident by the Soviets.

"We have a right to know everything about alien visitors to this planet," he said. "In fact, it is beyond comprehension that the Soviets would even try to keep something of this magnitude secret," Dr. Coleon said.

"The United States, Britain, France, even the Netherlands already would have issued a statement to keep the world abreast of developments. It is criminal for the Russians not to do the same.

"It's time they told the world what they have found."

2nd severed arm found

A worker clearing a ditch came across a human arm, the second severed arm to be found by authorities in Woodbridge, Va.

The limb, which was neatly separated from the body in textbook surgical fashion, smelled slightly of formaldehyde. It matches a left arm found propped against a restaurant door in the same town a few weeks before.
